THE GREAT QUESTION

Shall the Bible Be Read in Our Public Schools

REV. R. B. WHITEHEAD DISCUSSES

The Matter and Brings Forward Proof and Authority, Divine and Human, Demonstrating the Fact That, From His Standpoint, the Book of Books Cannot Be Excluded, Banned or No Board of Education.

The Protestant Bible in public schools.
There is a difference between the preacher-politician and the preacher preaching politics. There is a "dirty pool of politics," two or three of them, that no man has a right to dabble in;
and there is clean politics, the dignified science of good government, in which it is just as honorable and religious to take part as it is to take part in a Sabbath school convention, to pray, to deliver a sermon on the fatherhood of God or the brotherhood of man.

"No function of the church in relation to every day life," says Cannon Farrar, "would be more legitimate than that of intermingling with political life, so as to ennoble its aspirations and improve its true method."

It is the imperative duty of every minister to take a decided, active part in forming public opinions and shaping the conduct of the people. You will remember the priesthood of the Moslem economy. Jesus, supreme model of preachers, denounced in scathing terms Scribes, Pharisees and rulers of His people, and held up their practices to the light for the scorn of all good men. "Let us alone," was the cry of the day. Peter, Paul and John, with a multitude of successors, followed the example of the Master. Huss, Savonarola, Martin Luther, John Knox were political agitators and political reformers.

The sound of Luther's hammer nailing his 95 theses on the door of Wittenberg church, has not ceased to reverberate wherever hands are tied or feet shackled, or struggling liberty looks up to the stars in hope, or by faith wings its flight to the throne of God.
Look at the New England preachers; for two hundred years they continued this agitation.

There was Cotton, Tucker, Parsons, Hitchcock, Langdon, Mahew, Skillman, Cooper, Payson, Gordon, Howe and a host of others political preachers. The preacher would be derelict in his duty should he refuse to share the obligations and privileges which rest upon his fellow citizens. He must be an example and illustrate the highest type of patriotism, loyalty and righteousness; must be a leader, or he would be of little use. Still further, he must be a reformer. These will take him into the realms of politics and he can't avoid discussion of great underlying principles that are essential to the good government and peace and prosperity of his country. How glad I am to be in such glorious company and to help on such a glorious cause.

Great interest has been awakened by the recent utterances of our school board concerning the Bible in our public schools. If the patriotic orders, ministers of the gospel and good citizens have remained silent, the 30 years history of the schools boards of this city would have been repeated. But, thank God, history does not always repeat itself, and our earnest prayer is that every patriotic, liberty-loving citizen may see to it that past history, in present achievements, may be redeemed from its mistakes.

We should assume, in this discussion, that our board of education is honest in its opinion, and I am glad to know, from personal knowledge, that some of its members are open for conviction and ready for more light. Therefore we say, in classical terms, "Turn on the Light." In order that the speaker may not be charged with verbiage, want of experience and knowledge in the practical affairs of life, whose sole duty it is to "preach the gospel of Christ and attend to wants of the members of his own congregation," we quote copiously from men whose great learning, matchless wisdom and broad experience can not be questioned for one moment by any fair minded person. An eminent thinker has said recently: "No state has heretofore attained a permanent life without some faith in a higher than human power. Something above man to which man is subject has always been a recognized bond of society. The assumption, therefore, that the American commonwealth occupies a position of indifference to all religion is contradicted by the facts of our history, of our laws, and by all sound philosophy."

Let us look a little further. When De Toqueville, 40 years since, returned to France, and reported in permanent form the results of his wise and philosophic study of our institutions, he said: "Although the travelers who have visited North America differ on many points, they all agree in remarking that morals are far more strict there than elsewhere. It is evident that, on this point, the Americans are very superior to their progenitors, the English."
"The new states must be religious. In order to be free, Society must be destroyed unless the Christian moral life be strengthened in proportion as the political life is relaxed; and what can be done with a people who are their own masters, if they be not submissive to Deity? It cannot be doubted that in the United States the instruction of the people powerfully contributes to the support of the Democratic republic; and such must always be the case, I believe, where the instruction which the understanding is not separated from the moral education which ascends the heart."

"The greatest part of British America was peopled by men who, after having shaken off the authority of the pope, acknowledged no other religious supremacy. They brought with them into the new world a form of Christianity, which I cannot better describe than by styling it a democratic and republican religion. This contributed powerfully to the establishment of a republic, and a democracy in public affairs; and, from the beginning, politics and religion contracted an alliance which has never been dissolved."

The facts here stated have to do with the discussion of the Bible in our schools, since the permanence of Republican government is wrapped up in Christian morals, as applied to our common and higher education.

Our pilgrim fathers, refugees from civil and religious persecutions, gave us a goodly heritage and left to us, their successors, a princely legacy, to perpetuate, for all time to come, the Protestant Christian religion.

Let us inquire what is the state? Blackstone said: "For when civil society is once formed, government at the same time results of course, as necessary to preserve and keep that society in order." Cicero said: "Law is nothing else but right reason derived from divinity and government, an emanation of the divine mind." Edmund Burke said:
"All dominion over man is the effect of divine disposition. It is bound by the eternal laws of Him that gave it, with which no human authority can dispense." Scriptures, Romans xii. 1, 2.

1. Let every soul be subject unto the higher power. For there is no power but God; the powers that be are ordained of God.

2. Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God; and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation.

3. For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? Do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same.

4. For he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the sword in vain; for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil.

5. Wherefore ye must needs be subject, not only for wrath, but also for conscience's sake.

6. For, for this cause pay ye tribute also:
for they are God's ministers, attending continually upon this very thing.

7. Render therefore to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honor to whom honor.

The state is therefore the power of God, ordained for the good of man.

For what does the State exist? Good of man. The very idea and origin of our government is to afford opportunity for the development and protection of man as a moral and social being. Education consists in a symmetrical development of the whole man, for the purpose of his creation. What purpose? To glorify God and enjoy him forever. Every child has a three-fold nature, body, mind and soul, and these dwell in an inseparable unity during life. Therefore the State, as a symbol and embodiment of morality, is a necessity to man's moral nature. The State is obliged to own Christianity as vital to its own existence. We believe that our schools, as representative of the State, should see to it that body, mind and spirit should have symmetrical development. But if all three can't be developed symmetrically, which shall receive the most attention? You would naturally expect as a minister to say, "why, moral side;" and you are correct.

But I am not alone in this opinion. The best educators, ancient and modern, argue that the forming of character which implies power to act rightly, efficiently and wisely, is the end and aim of a true education, and admit the uselessness of culture without character.

Among those who declare that forming and developing character is the chief business of our public school life, are personages of no less fame than Dr. Wm. Harris, U. S.
Commissioner of Education; Dr. Draper, superintendent public schools, New York City; Dr. Seaver, superintendent public schools of Boston, and Dr. Snyder, of Colorado.

But let us give added weight by quoting verbatim other authorities. Daniel Webster, in his argument against the Girard will, said: "In what age, by what sect, where, when, by whom, has religious truth been excluded from the education of youth?
Nowhere; never. Everywhere, and at all times, it has been regarded as essential. It is of the essence, of the vitality of useful instruction."

Governor Rice, of Massachusetts, recently said: "I lift up a warning voice with respect to the inadequacy and peril of our modern system of one-sided education, which supposes it can develop manhood and good citizenship out of mere brain culture."

Dr. Schaaff says: "Intellectual education is worth little without virtue, and virtue must be supported and fed by piety, which binds men to God, inspires them on to noble fellow-man, and urges them on to noble thoughts and noble deeds. A self-governing democracy which does not obey the voice of conscience, and own God as its ruler, must degenerate into mobocracy and anarchy."

"Despotism," says De Toqueville, "may govern without faith; but liberty cannot."
Victor Cousin, the profoundest of French philosophers, in an address before the Chamber of Peers, maintained that "any system of school training which sharpened and strengthened all the intellectual powers, without at the same time affording a source of restraint and counter-check to their tendency to evil, by supplying moral culture and religious principle, was a course rather than a blessing."

The wise man said: "To educate the mind of a bad man, without correcting his morals, is to put a sword into the hands of a maniac." John Locke, philosopher: "If virtue and a well tempered soul be not got and settled so as to keep out evil and vicious habits, language and science and all the other accomplishments of education will be to no purpose but to make the worse or more dangerous man."

Prof. Atwater, of Princeton, says: "Morality enters into the very being of the State, as the impelling and the final cause of its formation. Its very end is to promote the prevalence of justice by self imposed laws; laws imposed in the exercise of its own free activity, by its own constituted authorities, and not by any alien power." There was never a time in the history of public school life when we were as anxious as now to save our public schools from prosecuting influences. Never a time when the teaching profession has reached such unanimity of opinion that more dissemination of knowledge is of slight value to the nation, compared with the quickening of moral impulses; and now the pendulum, which has swung to the extreme of secularization, has already turned back to moral development."

To require that literature and morals be taught and then forbid the use of the best book on morals, and noblest literature the world has ever seen, seems more worthy of the darkest ages than nineteenth century civilization.
When you take out of our government the Christian religion, and the morality it teaches, you have nothing but a rotten old hulk left; a putrid carcass, whose noxious breath reaches to the very throne of God.

But the brain and brawn of the people agree on one thing. Morals must be taught in the public school. This is the verdict of all except a few secularists and infidels. But suppose our schools to be secularized; even then it would not meet the claims of these.
and the old European controversy of Godless liberalism and Popery would be renewed.
But a new form of the old fight rages its head on these free shores, and Liberalism and Popery have joined hands for the exclusion of the Bible.

The Catholic church, for the sole purpose of making our schools secular and then crying out, as a defense for the churches attitude on parochial schools, "your schools are Godless;" and still further say, as well expressed by The Catholic World, a paper of authority in the Catholic church:

"We, of course, deny the competency of the State to educate, to say what shall or shall not be taught in the public schools, as we deny its competency to say what shall or shall not be the religious belief and discipline of its citizens. We, of course, utterly repudiate the popular doctrine, that so-called secular education is the function of the State. The rule of allowing only our supposed common Christianity to be taught in schools does not solve the difficulty, or secure to the Catholic his freedom of conscience. Religious liberty consists in the unrestrained freedom and independence of the church to teach and govern all men and nations, princes and peoples, rulers and ruled, in all things enjoined by the teleolog-ical law of man's existence. Before God, no man has a right to be of any religion but the Catholic, the only true religion, the only religion by which men can be raised to union with God in the beatific vision. The exclusion of the Bible would not help the matter.

This would only make the schools purely secular, which is worse than making them purely Protestant; for as it regards the State, society, morality, all the interests of this world, Protestantism we hold to be far better than no religion."

Therefore, allowing the introduction of what is common to all Christians, in the instructions in the public schools, will not satisfy Romanists. The Atheists and Infidels ground it so well known we need not discuss them. So leaving these two out of the question, for the time being, we come back to the question of the people and wise teachers agreement of morals. But you say, what system of morals shall we use? Certainly not Catholic, for by their own words they stand condemned, and their claim admitted would be a flagrant violation of all present constitutional provisions concerning religious equality of the people, and the support of sectarian education. The other claim we may pass over, for they make no claim on a system of morals. Then shall we be Mohammedanism, Confucianism, Hinduism, Buddhism, Shintolism, etc. "No," you say. I say, "Amen." What are we, then?
And what book is our system of morals?
We are a Protestant Christian nation.
The Bible is our standard of morals.

We are brought to this conclusion by the inevitable, inexorable logic of events and decrees. Historically, we are a Christian nation. The divine authority of the Bible is acknowledged in the very make up of the government. Every officer, from president down to lowest official, is inducted into office under the solemnity of an oath on that book.
Christian religion permeates all our institutions, and it is the standard of right and wrong in morals. Government requires Christian oath. American jurisprudence, as well as English common law, rejects testimony of atheists. Government appoints thanksgiving, fasting and prayer. Congress and every department employ chaplains.

Christianity constitutes the most important part of the common law of our land.
Listen. In the great case of Updegraff versus the commonwealth, the solemn opinion pronounced by the superior court of Pennsylvania held that "Christianity, general Christianity, is and always has been part of the common law; not Christianity founded on any particular religious tenets; not Christianity with an ESTABLISHED CHURCH and TITLES and SPIRITUAL COURTS; but Christianity with liberty of conscience to all men." And the court held that "Christianity is and always has been part of the common law of Pennsylvania."

We stand equally in need now, as formerly, of all that moral discipline and those principles of virtue which help to bind society together. The people of the state, in common with the people of this country, profess the general doctrines of Christianity as the rule of their faith and practice; and to scandalize the Author of these doctrines is not only, in a religious point of view, extremely impious; but even in respect to the obligations due to society, is a gross violation of decency and good order. The court met, distinctly and logically, the suggestion then made, and which is still sometimes advanced with bold assumption, that the same rule must, under the constitution, apply to any other religion.

"Nor are we," said the chief justice, "bound by any expression in the constitution, as some have strongly supposed, either not to punish at all or to punish indiscriminately the like attacks upon the religion of Mohammed, or of the grand Lama; and for this plain reason, that the case assumes that we are a Christian people, and that the morality of the country is deeply engrafted upon Christianity, and not upon the doctrines or worship of those impostors." Story, Judge of the supreme court of the United States agreed with this decision.

Shall we then consent to the doctrines and wise sayings of these impostors, to be placed side by side with a mutilated Bible in our public library, to be read or studied by our children? No, never. Let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth, and my right hand forget her cunning, if I prefer not the Bible above my chief joy.

But one says: "You have no right to make a tax payer pay for what he does not believe in; everybody has his rights."

That statement looks fair; but the logic of it would destroy the very foundation of our constitution. For example, an invitation to all the oppressed of the world to come and share our liberties is not to be construed to give license for the destruction of our Protestant Christian civilization, usages, institutions and manners. We quote Doctor Bieg in his work upon national education:

"To me it seems that the principle which maintains that nothing can be done or provided by act of parliament, or by the will of any majority, however overwhelming, which infringes on what any man holds as his conscientious convictions, or which requires him to contribute toward the teaching of anything he religiously disapproves or conscientiously rejects as false and of evil tendency, is a principle simply incompatible with national integrity or any form of government. The Mormon professes to hold conscientious and religious convictions in antagonism with the morality recognized by our public law in this country. Even secular instruction is certain to include much which,

by implication, if not directly, is opposed to the religious opinions, which must stand, at least, for religious convictions of many rate payers, while the crude and untrue scientific teachings of many teachers will impugn as painfully against the conscientious convictions of our 'scientists,' to whom science is religion, as any headlong or erroneous religious dogmatism against the religious convictions of certain rate payers. For my part I do not see why a man of science may not es-conscientiously object to have to contribute any quota of rates for the teaching of false science as a secularist in religion for the teaching of religious dogma. In these matters the average want and claim of the great majority must be held to decide what ought to be done."

Court's authority: The Donahoe proclien and versus Richards, a suit brought by a child for expulsion from school for refusing to read from a Protestant Bible, it was held that, with the superintendent the school committee had "reposed the power of directing the general course of instruction, and what books should be used in the schools, and they may rightfully enforce obedience to all the regulations by them, made within the sphere of their authority."

"For a refusal to read from a book thus prescribed, the committee may, if they see fit, expel such disobedient scholars."

"No scholar can escape or evade such requirement made by the committee, under the plea that his conscience will not allow the reading of such book."

"Nor can the ordinance be nullified because the church of which the scholar is a member holds or has instructed its members that it is a sin to read the book proscribed. A law is not unconstitutional because it may prohibit what one may conscientiously think right or require what one may conscientiously think wrong."

"A requirement of the superintending school committee that the PROTESTANT VER-SION OF THE BIBLE shall be read in the public schools of their town, by the scholars who are able to read, is in violation of no constitutional provision, and is BINDING upon ALL the members of the school, although composed of divers religious sects."

Chief Justice Shepley and Justices Tenney and Howard concurred: "The conscientious belief of religious duty furnishes no legal defense to the doing or refusing what the state, in the constitutional authority, may require. If it were so, the obligation of a statute would depend not upon the will of a state, but upon its conformity with the religious convictions of its members."

On the face of this authority from educational sources and decrees of courts, ought there to be any doubt in any mind whether the state has the right to teach Christianity, even if objection is raised by those who do not believe in it? Certainly not. And, further than this, according to the logic of these authorities, the state is shut up to but one line of action—to teach the morals of the Protestant Christianity for its own preservation.
And the decrees of courts remains the law where the law itself has not been made, and had the famous Cincinnati case, upon which Judge Welch gave judgment, been carried to the supreme court of the United States, Ohio would not be suffering the disgrace of playing loose with the very foundamentals of its government.

One more excuse: "Let them study the Bible at home." I say amen. If our homes were properly managed, perhaps there would not be so much reason for a discussion of this subject; but we must remember that a large number of children, who will soon arrive at the dignity of citizenship, receive no moral or religious instruction outside of schools, and remember that the moral side is of most importance, and the state must supply this. You will see the fallacy of this excuse.

We must DEMAND that the state, assuming to teach its citizenship as a preparation for the responsibilities of citizenship, must not only recognize Christianity as the religion of the people, in conformity with historical and judicial precedent, but must require the teaching of Christian morality wherever education is supported by taxation or state grant.

Is it not high time for us, as a Christian Protestant nation, to get back to foundation principles upon which the life and integrity of a nation rests? Is it not high time for the people who give character to our civilization and stability to our government to assert themselves?

Let us banish this sickly sentimentality which says "charity for all," that, under hypocritical concession to religious freedom, retreats in the presence of Secularism, Atheism and Jesuitism.

FAIRMOUNT HOME.

The Report Just Issued Shows a Good Record.

The report of Superintendent Southworth, of the Fairmount Children's Home, shows that since the opening of the home in 1876 there have been admitted 959 boys and 657 girls, a total of 1616. During the past year, dating from Oct. 31, 1894, to Oct. 31, 1895, there has been 298 children cared for, without a death. Of these,
75 were sent to parents or guardians, 10 were adopted, 37 indentured, 17 transferred to other institutions, 6 discharged on account of age and 29 placed on trial, leaving 124 in the home on Oct. 31, 1895. Thirty-nine of the inmates were sent from this county. The expenses of the institution for the year were $13,263.14, leaving a cash balance of $975.68.

At the Risk.

The supper tomorrow night, given under the auspices of the St. Aloysius Church Aid and literary society, will no doubt attract a large attendance.
Supper will be served from 5 to 10:30 o'clock. Take all your friends and enjoy the feast.

POLICE MADE A HAUL

The Exchange Hotel Raided Early Sunday Morning.

R. B. ALLEN AND OTHERS FINED

Two Young Men, Who Gave Fictitious Names, In Company With Female Companions, Are Arrested on a Charge of Immorality.

Between the hours of 12 and 1 Sunday morning Officers Earl and Jennings, accompanied by Marshal Wyman, raided the Exchange Hotel on Second street, and placed under arrest two young men, with an equal number of female companions. The proprietor, R. B. Allen, was also arrested, Marshal Wyman having in his possession a warrant charging Allen with keeping a house of assignation. The officers took the transgressors to city hall and two of the guilty parties were released upon giving security for their appearance Sunday morning. The house has been under suspicion for some time past and a careful watch kept of the premises, something stronger than circumstantial evidence being required to warrant the course that was taken;
but the time for action presented itself Sunday morning, and the officers swooped down and landed their game. A merry watch out in the cold had been kept the greater part of Saturday night, and about 12:30 an entrance was effected, and Allen immediately placed under arrest. Proceeding upstairs, the officers forced open the doors of the two rooms and found in each a couple engaged in sinful conduct, two of them attired only in the garb of nature. They were notified to dress themselves and with the other offenders accompany the officers to the lockup. The officers are bound to wage an active crusade against the existence of immorality in the city and with renewed energy strive to suppress and exterminate vice in every form.

At the hearing yesterday the names of John W. Thompson and wife, of Salem, and James W. Anderson and wife, of Wellsburg, were given, but they are known to be fictitious. The mayor fined all four $10, which was paid, one couple remaining in jail the greater part of the day until friends procured the necessary amount to secure their release. This morning Allen was arraigned and plead guilty to a charge of keeping a house of assignation. The mayor imposed a fine of $50 and costs, and, with it, administered a scathing rebuke to the man who would allow his premises to be used for such immoral purposes. The mayor is to be commended for the decided stand that he has taken toward those who break the law. All offenders should take warning and desist from their evil practices.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The Pastor Hobbeth With the Business Men.

Rev John Lloyd Lee, D. D. Ph. D., addressed a very large audience last night, giving his experience respecting the letters which he had addressed, during the week, to the business men of East Liverpool. The questions to be answered were:

First—Can a business man be a Christian?

Second—Ought a business man to be a Christian?

Third—Is it hard for a business man to be a Christian?

Some 85 letters were sent out by Reverend Lee, and he received over 40 answers, and every one responded in the affirmative save one, and he made certain provisos which indicated that he too thought a business man could be a Christian. The pastor's talk was listened to with close attention by a large audience, there being an unusually large number of business men present, and the reverend gentleman was the recipient of warm congratulations after the benediction was pronounced. Reverend Lee will follow the same line of thought on Sunday night next. The "Bible in our public schools" was referred to in a number of answers to the letters sent out by Reverend Lee, and every one of them favored the reading of the Bible in the schools. We understand that

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., MONDAY, FEB. 17.

For President,
WILLIAM MCKINLEY,
Of Ohio.

"Search the Scriptures."

What's the matter with our Bible?

Read, closely and carefully, the article published in the NEWS REVIEW today, as delivered from the pulpit of the Methodist Protestant church Sunday morning, by the pastor, R. B. Whitehead. Study the virtue and power of the authorities he quotes, and then form your own conclusions, from an intelligent and unprejudiced standpoint, and act accordingly.

What's the matter with the Bible? "I want to read the Bible to my scholars; but I am afraid to, as it might result in my discharge by the board of education, and I am not prepared to cast aside my only avenue of obtaining a living." This is the language of a teacher now teaching in the public schools of East Liverpool. Are the Christian people of East Liverpool, irrespective of sect or denomination, satisfied with such a state of affairs? What's the matter with the Bible? Turn on the light.

MATTHEW STANLEY QUAY is making great running in his presidential race at present. M. S. Q. is an exceedingly astute politician, and can control his co-workers and manipulate the wires in a truly wonderful manner. But the best laid plans of wise and cunning men come to naught when the masses take the bit in their teeth, in favor of whom they chose to select for official positions or honors. The men of the east, who have met in session and resolved to defeat William McKinley, of Ohio, for the presidential nomination, have undertaken a mighty job, and they are more than liable to suffer defeat. Ohio's gallant son is a great favorite with the common people—the brawn, brain and muscle of the nation.

TEACH TEMPERANCE.

The bible question is here to stay, and will not rest until the law on the subject is fully ventilated and fully understood by the masses. As the law is now understood, the matter rests with local schoolboards, and if the local boards act in opposition to the direct wishes of the majority of the voters, then the said voters must see to it that the public servants are compelled to obey the behests of their constituents. And now comes the question of teaching temperance in the public schools. Is it taught, as the law provides that it shall be, in the public schools of East Liverpool? Is the board of education and the superintendent of the public school obeying the law in this particular? If not, why not? A few men dare not act in opposition to the will of the very large majority. Good and true citizens dare not act in opposition to the law and against the statutes controlling the school system. If it is against the law to read the Bible in the public schools, then the Bible cannot be read therein in that law is repealed. If the law says (and it does say that very thing) that temperance shall be taught the youth in the public schools of this grand old Buckeye state, then it shall be taught, no matter how much it affects the pockets of those who are either directly or indirectly engaged in the manufacture and sale of intoxicants. This is bold talk, as it affects the purse strings of many men and women whom you would not believe derive pecuniary benefit as the result of the accursed traffic. But desperate diseases require desperate remedies, and God best loves those who do their full duty in the hour of dire danger. It behooves every true man and woman—every one who loves humanity and appreciates the value of an immortal soul, to take positions in the front ranks of right and truth, and concede not a single point to the arch enemy of mankind. Let your watchword ever be "no compromise with evil."

MRS. POWELL LOCATED

The Alleged Poisoner on a Visit to Columbus.

SHE DENIES THE ACCUSATIONS.

Did Not Poison Prof. Van Sickle at Springfield, as He Succumbed to Congestion of the Lungs—Also Tells Her Side of Other Stories.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 17.—Mrs. Clement Powell, accused of poisoning Prof. Van Sickle at Springfield, has been located in Columbus. She has been stopping with the family of Dr. H. L. Kutchin, 28 Ide Terrace. Stories have been sent out from Springfield that Mrs. Powell was a wholesale poisoner. Mrs. Powell admitted she was a native of Trumbull, N. Y., and that her father was John Talley.

She denounced with tears in her eyes the charge as false that she had been driven from home by her father for poisoning her sisters. She said her sisters had died long before she left home, about eight years ago. She had visited home a year ago last June. She taught school near Ashley for several terms. She boarded at the home of T. S. Maloney, who wrote the letter to the coroner of Clarke county charging her with poisoning several persons. Maloney was a school director. Mrs. Powell said Mr. Maloney's little boy and girl died of membranous croup three years ago last January.

The April following their death she claims Maloney insulted her grossly and she left his house. Since then he has accused her of theft and forgery and she brought suit against him for $10,000 damages in the Delaware courts for defamation of character.

Last year she taught school at Brice, Franklin county and was married May 15 to Clement M. Powell. Mrs. Powell admitted she had married Lloyd Brown about eight years ago, but they separated. Last June Mr. and Mrs. Powell moved to Springfield and lived in Prof. Van Sickle's house. He boarded with them.

In December her husband deserted her, and on Dec. 25 Prof. Van Sickle died of congestion of the lungs, as she claims. She came to Columbus Jan. 4, and claims to have been in communication with relatives of Van Sickle since.

PUGS WON'T FIGHT TODAY.

Maher Still Too Blind—The Smaller Fights Off.

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 17.—There will be no fight today. That much is certain, no matter what comes later in the week. Maher's eyes are still improving, but he will be in no condition to enter the ring. The fight is not likely to occur before Friday. Julian undoubtedly will claim the forfeit.

"Maher simply cannot fight," said Connolly, one of the Irishman's backers. "His eyes are better, but he is not able to endure a strong light, let alone the glare of the sun. I told Julian it would be of no use for him to claim a forfeit, for if he attempted it, I would have to get at the ringside and prevent him from getting the money. He cannot get any forfeit if Maher appears at the ringside. The articles say the forfeit can only be claimed if one of the men fails to appear. They do not say that a man must fight in order to prevent the payment of the forfeit. If I have my man at the ringside there is no show for Julian to get any forfeit and I tell you he will not get it. We will take Maher to the ringside blind as he is and then refuse to fight if Julian insists on claiming forfeit. He will have appeared at the ringside and fulfilled all conditions for the violation of which any forfeit can be claimed. What good is it going to do Julian to claim anything."

All the small fights have been declared off. The management will pay all forfeits on the small fights, $250 to each man, and the fighters are at liberty to go home as soon as they like.

The managers of the fight are confronted with a new obstacle. The portion of the purses subscribed by the citizens of El Paso expires by limitation today if the fight is not off by that time. Some of the subscriptions are unpaid, and the chances are now that they will never be.

Nearly all of the prizefighters went over to Juarez Sunday to attend the bull fights. Four horses, worth about $3 each, were gored to death, four bulls were tortured and slain and the arena was covered with blood. The Mexicans, as usual, howled with delight, but the fighters were disgusted.

A SCHEME OF RUSSIA.

News From Japan Puts New Light on the Korean Rebellion.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The Times today prints a dispatch from Kobe, Japan, which says: News from Seoul, Korea, proves that Russia made a remarkable coup on the night of Feb. 10. On that night 200 Russian marines with a field gun were landed at Chemulpo and marched to Seoul.

The king secretly left the palace for the Russian legation, whence he proclaimed his ministers guilty of treason. Two of the ministers were arrested and executed and the others fled. The Tai-Won-Kun (the father of the king) is a prisoner at the legation. The anti-Japanese ministry was then formed.

A bitter feeling has been aroused in Japan. A cabinet council was held, attended by the military officials. It is reported that the Russian minister declares that Russia was not responsible and that he merely afforded protection to the king's request. But it is believed that this precludes a Russian protectorate over Korea.

Stabbed Over Money.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Feb. 17.—Mike Zaton has stabbed John Sorock in a local saloon, inflicting wounds from which death will likely result. The men are miners and quarreled over the division of their monthly pay. Zaton, without warning, wielded the knife twice before spectators could knock and hold him down.

To Rescue a Lake Steamer.

DETROIT, Feb. 17.—Walter B. Campbell, president of the Detroit, Belle Isle and Windsor Ferry company, has received directions to dispatch two of the company's steamers to the rescue of the car ferry steamer Shenango No. 3, which has been disabled in the ice in Lake Erie, off Kingsville, Ont., for five days.

A Four Months' Trance.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 17.—Miss Hattie Benedict, the young lady who, four months ago, fell into a comatose state from which she has only revived three times, is now on the road to recovery. The last trance came upon the girl without warning Jan. 12. From this she was awakened on Wednesday.

Mrs. Eliza Nicholson Dead.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17.—Mrs. Eliza J. Nicholson, proprietress of the New Orleans Picayune, is dead. She was suffering from grip when her husband died a week ago, and the sad event so shattered her system that the disease developed into congestion of the lungs.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S SORROW.

She Expresses It in a Public Letter. Thankful For Sympathy.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—In a special supplement to The Gazette is printed the following letter from the queen dated Osborne, Feb. 14: "I have, alas, once more to thank my loyal subjects for their warm sympathy in the fresh and grievous affliction which has befallen me and my beloved daughter Beatrice, Princess of Battenberg. This new sorrow is an overwhelming, and to me a double one; for I lose a dearly loved and helpful son, whose presence was like a bright sunbeam in my home, and my daughter loses a noble and devoted husband, to whom she was united by the closest affection."

"To witness the blighted happiness of the daughter who has never left me and has comforted and helped me, is hard to bear; but the feeling of universal sympathy so touchingly shown by all classes of my subjects has deeply moved my child and myself and has helped and soothed us greatly. I wish from my heart to thank my people for this, as well as for the appreciation manifested of the dear and gallant prince, who laid down his life in the service of his adopted country. My beloved child is an example to all in her courage, resignation and submission to the will of God."

MRS. NANSEN BELIEVES IT.

She Thinks Her Husband Has Reached the North Pole.

CHRISTIANA, Norway, Feb. 17.—Wide-spread as is the interest over the whereabouts of Nansen, an interest extending over the whole world wherever the telegraph and the cable can reach it can nowhere be more keenly felt than in the heart of his devoted wife, who lives in this city, whence the expedition in the Fram sailed on June 24, 1893.

She has received no word from her husband directly. But she is profoundly hopeful that the news which first came from Irkutsk and has since been corroborated from other sources, is authentic and that Dr. Nansen has, in fact, solved the secret of the North Pole and is now safely emerging from the misty isolation of the frozen regions.

A London special says: The report that Dr. Nansen has discovered the North Pole is apparently confirmed. A dispatch came from the British consul at Archangel on the Northern coast of Russia in Europe, which says the news is true.

STOP LYNCHINGS FIRST.

A Spanish Paper's Reply to Our Talk of Cruelties to Cubans.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—A special from London says: Advice from Madrid do not indicate any great excitement in Spain's capital over the Cuban resolutions before the United States congress. The Herald, the leading newspaper in Madrid, says: "It is not for the United States government to give Spain lessons in humanity. Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones. Let the United States government put down lynching before it reads us homilies on our duty to the Cuban insurgents."

FOR PERMANENT ARBITRATION.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—A call signed by Mayor William L. Strong, Bishop Henry G. Potter, Benjamin H. Bristow, ex-Justice Charles P. Daly, President Seth Low and William E. Dodge has been sent to a number of prominent men in this city and Brooklyn.

It looks toward the formation of a committee to further the movement now in progress in England and this country for the establishment of a permanent court of arbitration to settle all disputes arising between the United States and Great Britain.

GOMEZ WARNS WEYLER.

Inauguration of Atrocities Will Mean His Assassination—Prisoners Being Shot.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 17.—One hundred and forty passengers have arrived on the steamer Olivette from Cuba. They say that the rumor prevails in Havana that the prisoners in Monro castle are being shot, as the firing can be heard in the city.

Gomez has notified General Weyler that should he attempt to repeat his atrocities of the former revolution that he would be shot by Cuban assassins.

Killed by a Convict.

MEMPHIS, Feb. 17.—At Pratt's mines, in Alabama, where the state convicts are worked, William Stainback, a notorious negro murderer serving a life sentence, assaulted John Crook, the mine boss, plunging a coal pick three times into Crook's back and head, beating out his brains and causing instant death. Stainback was shot to death by the guards.

The Buckeye Glassworks Burned.

WHEELING, Feb. 17.—The Buckeye glassworks of Martins Ferry caught fire at 1:15 o'clock this morning and was totally destroyed. The loss will probably reach $150,000 and the insurance will not exceed one-third of that sum. The works were soon to be started up with non-union labor. It is believed the fire was of incendiary origin.

President Day Cleared.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 17.—After being out 80 hours, the jury in the case of Frederick Day, president of the failed Plankinton bank, has brought in a verdict of acquittal. Day was charged with receiving deposits after the bank was known to be insolvent.

Working For Morton in Florida.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 17.—Thomas Fortune, the New York colored editor, is here ostensibly on a visit, but looking colored men say he is quietly working to secure the Florida delegation to St. Louis for Governor Morton of New York.

to endure a strong light, let alone the glare of the sun. I told Julian it would be of no use for him to claim a forfeit, for if he attempted it, I would have Peter at the ringside and prevent him from getting the money. He cannot get any forfeit if Maher appears at the ringside. The articles say the forfeit can only be claimed if one of the men fails to appear. They do not say that a man must fight in order to prevent the payment of the forfeit. If I have my man at the ringside there is no show for Julian to get any forfeit and I tell you he will not get it. We will take Maher to the ringside blind as he is and then let the light if Julian insists on claiming forfeit. He will have appeared at the ringside and fulfilled all conditions for the violation of which any forfeit can be claimed. What good is it going to do Julian to claim anything."

All the small fights have been declared off. The management will pay all forfeits on the small fights, $350 to each man, and the fighters are at liberty to go home as soon as they like.

The managers of the fight are confronted with a new obstacle. The portion of the purses subscribed by the citizens of El Paso expires by limitation today if the fight is not off by that time.
Some of the subscriptions are unpaid, and the chances are now that they will never be.

Nearly all of the prizefighters went over to Juarez Sunday to attend the bull fights. Four horses, worth about $3 each, were gored to death, four bulls were tortured and slain and the arena was covered with blood. The Mexicans, as usual, howled with delight, but the fighters were disgusted.

A SCHEME OF RUSSIA.

News From Japan Puts New Light on the Korean Rebellion.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The Times today prints a dispatch from Kobe, Japan, which says: News from Seoul, Korea, proves that Russia made a remarkable coup on the night of Feb. 10. On that night 200 Russian marines with a field gun were landed at Chemulpo and marched to Seoul.

The king secretly left the palace for the Russian legation, whence he proclaimed his ministers guilty of treason.
Two of the ministers were arrested and executed and the others fled. The Tai-Woo-Kun (the father of the king) is a prisoner at the legation. The anti-Japanese ministry was then formed.

A bitter feeling has been aroused in Japan. A cabinet council was held, attended by the military officials.
It is reported that the Russian minister declares that Russia was not responsible and that he merely afforded protection at the king's request. But it is believed that this precludes a Russian protectorate over Korea.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Feb. 17.—Mike Zaten has stabbed John Sorock in a local saloon, inflicting wounds from which death will likely result. The men are miners and quarreled over the division of their monthly pay. Zaten, without warning, wielded the knife twice before spectators could knock and hold him down.

To Rescue a Lake Steamer.

DETROIT, Feb. 17.—Walter B. Campbell, president of the Detroit, Belle Isle and Windsor Ferry company, has received directions to dispatch two of the company's steamers to the rescue of the car ferry steamer Shenango No. 2, which has been disabled in the ice in Lake Erie, off Kingsville, Ont., for five days.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 17.—Miss Hattie Benedict, the young lady who, four months ago, fell into a comatose state from which she has only revived three times, is now on the road to recovery. The last trance came upon the girl without warning Jan. 12. From this she was awakened on Wednesday.

Mrs. Eliza Nicholson Dead.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17.—Mrs. Eliza N. Nicholson, proprietress of the New Orleans Picayune, is dead. She was suffering from grip when her husband died a week ago, and the sad event so shattered her system that the disease developed into congestion of the lungs.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S SORROW.

She Expresses It in a Public Letter.
Thankful For Sympathy.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—In a special supplement to The Gazette is printed the following letter from the queen dated Osborne, Feb. 14: "I have, alas, once more to thank my loyal subjects for their warm sympathy in the fresh and grievous affliction which has befallen me and my beloved daughter Beatrice, Princess of Battenberg. This new sorrow is an overwhelming, and to me a double one; for I lose a dearly loved and helpful son, whose presence was like a bright sunbeam in my home, and my daughter loses a noble and devoted husband, to whom she was united by the closest affection.

"To witness the blighted happiness of the daughter who has never left me and has comforted and helped me, is hard to bear; but the feeling of universal sympathy so touchingly shown by all classes of my subjects has deeply moved my child and myself and has helped and soothed us greatly. I wish from my heart to thank my people for this, as well as for the appreciation manifested of the dear and gallant prince, who laid down his life in the service of his adopted country. My beloved child is an example to all in her courage, resignation and submission to the will of God."

MRS. NANSEN BELIEVES IT.

She Thinks Her Husband Has Reached the North Pole.

CHRISTIANA, Norway, Feb. 17.—Widespread as is the interest over the whereabouts of Nansen, an interest extending over the whole world wherever the telegraph and the cable can reach it can nowhere be more keenly felt than in the heart of his devoted wife, who lives in this city, whence the expedition in the Fram sailed on June 24, 1893.

She has received no word from her husband directly. But she is profoundly hopeful that the news which first came from Irkutsk and has since been corroborated from other sources, is authentic and that Dr. Nansen has, in fact, solved the secret of the North Pole and is now safely emerging from the misty isolation of the frozen regions.

A London special says: The report that Dr. Nansen has discovered the North Pole is apparently confirmed. A dispatch came from the British consul at Archangel on the Northern coast of Russia in Europe, which says the news is true.

A Spanish Paper's Reply to Our Talk of Cruelties to Cubans.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—A special from London says: Advice from Madrid do not indicate any great excitement in Spain's capital over the Cuban resolutions before the United States congress.
The Herald, the leading newspaper in Madrid, says: "It is not for the United States government to give Spain lessons in humanity. Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones.
Let the United States government put down lynching before it reads us homilies on our duty to the Cuban insurgents."

Prominent New Yorkers Join in a Movement Started in London.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—A call signed by Mayor William L. Strong, Bishop Henry G. Potter, Benjamin H. Bristow, ex-Justice Charles P. Daly, President Seth Low and William E. Dodge has been sent to a number of prominent men in this city and Brooklyn.

It looks toward the formation of a committee to further the movement now in progress in England and this country for the establishment of a permanent court of arbitration to settle all disputes arising between the United States and Great Britain.

Inauguration of Atrocities Will Mean His Assassination—Prisoners Being Shot.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 17.—One hundred and forty passengers have arrived on the steamer Olivette from Cuba. They say that the rumor prevails in Havana that the prisoners in Monro castle are being shot, as the firing can be heard in the city.

Gomez has notified General Weyler that should he attempt to repeat his atrocities of the former revolution that he would be shot by Cuban assassins.

Killed by a Convict.

MEMPHIS, Feb. 17.—At Pratt's mines, in Alabama, where the state convicts are worked, William Stainback, a notorious negro murderer serving a life sentence, assaulted John Crook, the mine boss, plunging a coal pick three times into Crook's back and head, beating out his brains and causing instant death. Stainback was shot to death by the guards.

The Buckeye Glassworks Burned.

WHEELING, Feb. 17.—The Buckeye glassworks of Martins Ferry caught fire at 1:15 o'clock this morning and was totally destroyed. The loss will probably reach $150,000 and the insurance will not exceed one-third of that sum.
The works were soon to be started up with non-union labor. It is believed the fire was of incendiary origin.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 17.—After being out 80 hours, the jury in the case of Frederick Day, president of the failed Plankinton bank, has brought in a verdict of acquittal. Day was charged with receiving deposits after the bank was known to be insolvent.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 17.—Thomas Fortune, the New York colored editor, is here ostensibly on a visit, but leading colored men say he is quietly working to secure the Florida delegation to St.
Louis for Governor Morton of New York.

A New Political Party.

OMAHA, Feb. 17.—A new national political party has been born in Omaha.
Two hundred laboring men organized it. General Kelly, of industrial army fame, presided.

A THIRST FOR BLOOD.

Cincinnati Want to Avenge Pearl Bryan's Murder.

THE CABMAN'S STORY IS TRUE.

Enough Corroborative Evidence Has Been Secured to Prove Its Correctness—His Sensational Story and Identification of Walling—The Vehicle Found.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.—The excitement in this city and vicinity over the atrocious murder of Pearl Bryan has been intensified by the newest developments. The feeling is of the silent but ready sort that portends latent danger. A successful outbreak here would be out of the question with the present efficiency of the police and military. It is now probable that the prisoners will be taken to the Covington jail, which is very strong and also well situated to resist a siege. The jail in Newport is weak. The detectives have a clue to the surly that was employed to carry the human tigers and their victim to the scene of slaughter. They think they have found the surly on Walnut Hills and they are trying to identify it. Special circumstances that give weight to the testimony of George H. Jackson, the negro who drove the surly to Fort Thomas, are the high name he bears among all who have employed him and his present employer, Major W. S. Widdifield of McGregor avenue, Mt. Auburn.

Major Widdifield and the family have noticed that he has been unusually silent since the murder and that he has lost appetite. Another circumstance in his favor is that there is an offer of a reward of $500 for the discovery of the cab driver. George A. Jackson has not made any claim for this reward, nor has he even spoken of it.

In his statement he said that he found in the surly, instead of a round hitching weight, a piece of railroad rail about a foot long while waiting for the return of the two men, who had gone away with the girl at the place of the murder. It had two holes through it. A leather strap was fastened to one of these holes. That he used for a hitching weight and then ran away as fast as he could run until he came home.

Right here is the great point in the chain of circumstances. It was just precisely such a piece of railroad rail that was wrapped up in Jackson's bloody coat when it was fished out of a sewer catch basin at the corner of John and Richmond streets several days ago.

Another circumstance that supports George H. Jackson's story that the conveyance used was a surly and that George H. Jackson abandoned it in the night on that tragic night is the fact that a gentleman from Newport driving toward Fort Thomas in a buggy on that Saturday morning about 3 o'clock met a surly drawn by a gray horse with two men on the front seat and collided with it. He got out and the men in the surly drove on toward Newport at a furious rate.

To clinch the matter a procession of carriages, containing policemen and reporters started at 12:45 at night to Fort Thomas. George H. Jackson drove the leading carriage. The procession struck the murderers' route at Vine and Third streets and with George H. Jackson for a guide followed it to the bloody ground over a circuitous and out-of-the-way route. Here in the darkness he retold the story of his experience.

He said that on Friday night, Jan. 31, he was standing on the corner of George and Elm streets of this city, when a tall man came up and engaged him to drive a carriage. Presently a square-boxed surly was driven down to where he was and he was told that was a doctor and a sick lady in the carriage and that they were going to take her over to Newport. There was a curtain in the surly at the back of the drivers, so that Jackson could not see who was inside, but he heard the voice of a man and "the funny noise made by a woman."

After driving through Newport he became alarmed and wanted to jump out. This was after midnight. The man on the seat beside him put a revolver to his head and said: "You drive the horse or I'll make an end of you very quickly." The man on the seat with him took his name and residence, and said: "If you ever say anything about this we will kill you."

"We came at last to where they told me to stop. There were some thickets nearby. They said the house where the woman was to go was not very far away. They would take her across there and while they were ready to go back. The man in the surly got out first and helped the woman.

"She leaned on him heavily, and as she walked along she dragged her feet. The man who got out of the surly assisted in taking the woman away in the darkness. I heard a very queer noise, something like shuffling in the leaves, along with a noise that I can't describe, which I think was made by a woman. It sounded like a woman's cry in distress. I remembered the strange noises that the woman had been making all the way out. The noise that I heard in the thicket frightened me, and I ran away as hard as I could run. I got home on foot about 4:30 o'clock in the morning.

Afterward at the jail Jackson identified Walling as the man who rode on the seat with him. He partially identified Scott Jackson, but was not absolutely sure, as the man who rode with the girl.

MILITIA UNDER ORDERS.

Several Affairs Likely to Cause Trouble in Kentucky.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 17.—The McGraw guards are under orders and a load of ammunition has been taken to their armory. There were rumors that this precaution is in anticipation of trouble in the legislature, or at Newport on account of Jackson and Walling, the murderers of Pearl Bryan, being transferred across the river and on account of the danger of a lynching at Augusta, Ky. While the state officials deny all the rumors, it is generally believed that this action is in anticipation of a lynching at Augusta.

At the funerals of Mrs. Laughlin and May Jones, Robert Laughlin broke down. The officers watched him closely and the popular belief is that Robert Laughlin assaulted May Jones and was caught by his wife when a struggle ensued resulting in Robert Laughlin killing his wife and 13-year-old niece and then burning his house to hide the crime. The people do not believe the story of Laughlin that masked robbers killed his wife and niece, assaulted him and fired the house. The neighbors are so indignant that a lynching is expected.

KILL ALL THE SEALS.

The Senate Foreign Committee In Favor of Such Action.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The senate committee on foreign relations has practically decided to favorably report Senator Pettigrew's amendment of the law regulating seal fisheries. The main feature of the bill is a provision permitting the president to have all the seals, male and female, on the Pribiloff islands, killed in case other governments interested will not agree to a modus vivendi for the better protection of the seals while the matter of permanent protection is under consideration by an international commission, for which the bill makes provision.

Proof of the Russo-Turkish Alliance.

A SILVER DEADLOCK.

The Senate and House Entirely Apart on the Bond Bill—Chairman Dingley Thinks There Is No Chance For a Joint Report.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The personnel of the conference committee on the silver bond bill is exciting much interest, owing to the peculiar difference existing between the senate and house. The latter has passed the bond bill and refused to accept the senate silver substitute and declines to accept the bond feature.

Chairman Dingley, of the ways and means committee, said the senate would take the initiative. It was customary, he said, for each body to give a representation to each element on a measure. If this course was followed the senate would name two silver and one sound money senators as the senate conferees and the house would name two sound money and one silver man to represent it.

Mr. Dingley was asked how far it would be possible for a conference committee to frame a compromise when the measures of the two houses were antagonistic. He said a conference could not go outside the legislation of the two houses so far as to affect an entirely new measure. He expressed doubt whether so complete a difference between the houses as existed on this bill left open any middle course.

He regards the difference between the senate and house on the question of the bond bill as of such a nature that no agreement can be reached by means of conference committees. Such committees will be appointed, but it will be a mere formality.

AN APPEAL FOR SILVER.

National Chairman Mott Issues an Address to the People.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—J. J. Mott, chairman of the national silver committee, has issued an address to the people, asking them to forget party in a combined effort for the cause of silver.

He says: "Both the Democratic and Republican parties are under the blighting influence of the eastern money power. The record of every national convention of both parties for years is plain proof of the assertion. The legislation of both parties in congress is proof that it is impossible as a party question."

"Shall we longer heed the false promises of party platform declarations? Shall we longer submit to the academic discussion of what bimetalism means? Shall it be another campaign of straddling and equivocations? Or shall the issue be squarely on the free coinage of silver and gold and a president elected who represents the people on that great question?"

"The one hope of the people, I am convinced, is in the election of a president pledged, unconditionally and unreservedly, to the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold, the same as from the foundation of our government until 1873. And also unconditionally pledged in favor of a national currency, without the intervention of banks of issue and against the issuance of interest-bearing bonds in time of peace for any purpose whatever."

MAY ADJOURN BY JUNE 1.

Senators Already Talking About It—Probable Work of the Week.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The prospects are for a busy week in the senate, but outside of the fact that Senator Davis will speak on Monday in support of the Monroe doctrine and that the appropriation bills which have been reported will be taken up and probably disposed of, no definite forecast of the proceedings can be given.

The Cuban resolution has been given the place of precedence after the appropriation bill, but it is not yet certain that this subject will be taken up seriously until the senators who may wish to speak upon it shall have opportunity to prepare themselves.

There continues to be more or less discussion of a private nature among senators as to the probabilities of getting up the tariff bill in some form, but this depends almost wholly upon whether the friends of the bill can obtain assurance of success in whatever move they make.

The reports of both the majority and the minority of the committee on privileges and elections upon the Dupont case, the former favoring the seating of Mr. Dupont as senator from Delaware and the latter opposing that course will be made to the senate today.

There is beginning to be a great deal of talk in the senate of an early adjournment. If it is made evident that there will be no tariff legislation many senators think that an adjournment by June 1 will be possible.

THE WEEK IN THE HOUSE.

Cuban and Hayard Resolutions Likely to Be Reported.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Most of the time of the house this week will be taken up with the consideration of the appropriation bills.

The foreign affairs committee will call up the resolution to censure Ambassador Bayard as soon as those in charge of the appropriation bill, which have the right of way, afford an opportunity to do so. The foreign affairs committee is also working on a Cuban resolution, and it may possibly be reported to the house this week. The trend of opinion in the committee favors a resolution expressing it as the sense of congress that a state of war exists in Cuba, and requesting the president to issue his proclamation recognizing the insurgents as belligerents.

President Agrees to Arbitrate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The president has consented to serve as arbitrator between Italy and Brazil in the settlement of certain questions that have been pending for several years, growing out of the claims for Italians for indemnity for riots in Rio during the Brazilian rebellion.

The Daughters of America and Junior Mechanics held a very enjoyable social at their rooms on Saturday night. This was the first of a series to be held for the purpose of raising money for the national homeat Tiffi.

James Waggle, of West Market street, received a pedigree of a fox terrier, which he purchased some time ago, on Saturday night. The animal comes of the best stock, and will be entered in a number of dog shows.

Company E will meet tonight and if enough members are present will have drill at the armory and officers will be nominated. An order to hold an election has been received by Lieutenant Finley, and the meeting tonight will be held for that purpose.

Residents of the suburbs are again happy, and all because the roads leading out of the city are frozen. The mud in the West End on Saturday was something awful, and the man that started down the Calcutta road without a life insurance policy was foolish.

Passengers on the second car from Wellsville this morning complained bitterly about the coldness of the car. They say there was no heat at all, and had it not been for the time it took, it would have been much more pleasant to walk to this city than sit still in a street car and freeze.

There is a strong desire to witness Othello on the part of old playgoers, and the entertainment at the Grand on Thursday night next will no doubt attract an immense audience. The troupe booked for this occasion bears the reputation of being first-class in every particular, while the scenery and stage settings are said to be simply superb.

The first of the union prayer meetings, to be held in the churches of the city preparatory to the commencement of the evangelical meetings, will take place tomorrow night at the Christian church. Those who will lead in the song service at the rink will meet at the Presbyterian church tonight, where hymn books for use in those meetings will be distributed.

EX-SENATOR GEAR'S CASE.

His Lawyers Argue a Demurrer to the Indictment at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 17.—The demurrer to the indictment of ex-Senator Gear for soliciting a bribe in the Flumerfelt-Spooner election contest was argued Saturday afternoon before Judge Pugh. Mr. Gear's attorneys attacked the indictment on the ground that the indictment contained the words "general assembly" and "legislature," and that these were not synonymous terms. The court took the matter under advisement until tomorrow. If the demurrer is not sustained Mr. Gear will be arraigned next Thursday.

Messrs. N. B. Abbott and H. S. Hallwood, the West Side sewer contractors, entered pleas of not guilty. No time was set for their cases.

SMALL OHIO HAPPENINGS.

Burglars entered the postoffice at New Philadelphia and secured money and stamps amounting to $100.

Samuel Ogg, a farmer living near Carey, had two severe paralytic strokes which will probably prove fatal. He is worth over $20,000.

Charles Talbott of Bucyrus, in attempting to stop the machinery of the Crestline laundry had his arm ground to a pulp. His condition is serious.

Health Officer Dr. A. H. Hiddings states that there is very little doubt but that Charles Robinson, a Dayton workhouse prisoner, is afflicted with smallpox.

The attorneys of William Pail, the Brown county murderer, who is in the penitentiary annex sentenced to be hanged next March 31, are trying hard to save his neck.

C. C. Waite, president of the Hocking Valley road, is ill at Columbus in his private car, from which he cannot be moved without danger of fatal effect from pneumonia.

Frederick M. Silva, a farmer living near Peebles, left his home for Cincinnati about two weeks ago and has not been heard from since. He has a wife and two children.

The Republican county committee at Urbana endorsed George M. Eichelberger for congress and the county will cast her vote for him in the congressional convention, at Delaware, on March 5.

A THIRST FOR BLOOD.

Cincinnati Want to Avenge Pearl Bryan's Murder.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.—The excitement in this city and vicinity over the atrocious murder of Pearl Bryan has been intensified by the newest developments. The feeling is of the silent but ready sort that portends latent danger. A successful outbreak here would be out of the question with the present efficiency of the police and military. It is now probable that the prisoners will be taken to the Covington jail, which is very strong and also well situated to resist a siege. The jail in Newport is weak. The detectives have a clue to the survey that was employed to carry the human tigers and their victim to the scene of slaughter. They think they have found the survey on Walnut Hills and they are trying to identify it. Special circumstances that give weight to the testimony of George H. Jackson, the negro who drove the survey to Fort Thomas, are the high name he bears among all who have employed him and his present employer, Major W. S. Widdifield of McGregor avenue, Mt. Auburn.

Major Widdifield and the family have noticed that he has been unusually silent since the murder and that he has lost his appetite.

Another circumstance in his favor is that there is an offer of a reward of $500 for the discovery of the cab driver. George A. Jackson has not made any claim for this reward, nor has he even spoken of it.

In his statement he said that he found in the survey, instead of a round hitching weight, a piece of railroad rail about a foot long while waiting for the return of the two men, who had gone away with the girl at the place of the murder. It had two holes through it. A leather strap was fastened to one of these holes. That he used for a hitching weight and then ran away as fast as he could run until he came home.

Right here is the great point in the chain of circumstances. It was just precisely such a piece of railroad iron that was wrapped up in Jackson's bloody coat when it was fished out of a sewer catch basin at the corner of John and Richmond streets several days ago.

Another circumstance that supports George H. Jackson's story that the conveyance used was a survey and that George H. Jackson abandoned it in the night on that tragic night is the fact that a gentleman of Newport driving toward Fort Thomas in a buggy on that Saturday morning about 3 o'clock met a survey drawn by a gray horse with two men on the front seat and collided with it. He got out and the men in the survey drove on toward Newport at a fast rate.

To reach the matter a procession of carriages, containing policemen and reporters started at 12:45 at night to Fort Thomas. George H. Jackson drove the leading carriage. The procession struck the murderers' route at Vine and Third streets and with George H. Jackson for a guide followed it to the bloody ground over a circuitous and out-of-the-way route. Here in the darkness he told the story of his experience.

He said that on Friday night, Jan. 31, he was standing on the corner of George and Elm streets of this city, when a tall man came up and engaged him to drive a carriage. Presently a square-boxed survey was driven down to where he was and he was told that was the carriage. He was told there was a doctor and a sick lady in the carriage and that they were going to take her over to Newport. There was a curtain in the survey at the backs of the drivers, so that Jackson could not see who was inside, but he heard the voice of a man and the "funny noise made by a woman."

After driving through Newport he became alarmed and wanted to jump out. This was after midnight. The man on the seat beside him put a revolver to his head and said: "You drive the horse or I'll make an end of you very quickly." The man on the seat with him took his name and residence, and said: "If you ever say anything about this we will kill you," Jackson continued:

"We came at last to where they told me to stop. There were some thickets nearby. They said the house where the woman was to go was not very far away. They would take her across there and whistle when they were ready to go back. The man in the survey got out first and helped the woman.

"She leaned on him heavily, and as she walked along she dragged her feet. The man who got out of the survey assisted in taking the woman away in the darkness. I heard a very queer noise, something like shuffling in the leaves, followed by a noise that I can't describe, which I think was made by a woman. It sounded like a woman's cry in distress. I remembered the strange noises that the woman had been making all the way out. The noise that I heard in the thicket frightened me, and I ran away as hard as I could run. I got home on foot about 4:30 o'clock in the morning."

Afterward at the jail Jackson identified Walling as the man who rode on the seat with him. He partially identified Scott Jackson, but was not absolutely sure, as the man who rode with the girl.

Detectives Crim and McDermitt have found the survey and gray horse used by Jackson and Walling at Mullen's stables on Walnut hills. The colored driver identified the horse and survey. The survey still had the bloodstains over its seat. A bloody lead pencil was found in the bottom of the survey.

The vehicle belonged to a cab company.

James J. Corbett's Defeat.
CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—James J. Corbett, at the Haymarket theater, has announced from the stage, at the end of the first act, that if the Maher-Fitzsimmons fight takes place he will return to the ring and wrest the championship from the winner. The announcement was loudly applauded.

MILITIA UNDER ORDERS.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 17.—The McCree guards are under orders and a load of ammunition has been taken to their armory. There were rumors that this precaution is in anticipation of trouble in the legislature, or at Newport on account of Jackson and Walling, the murderers of Pearl Bryan, being transferred across the river and on account of the danger of a lynching at Augusta, Ky. While the state officials deny all the rumors, it is generally believed that this action is in anticipation of a lynching at Augusta.

At the funeral of Mrs. Laughlin and May Jones, Robert Laughlin broke down. The officers watched him closely and the popular belief is that Robert Laughlin assaulted May Jones and was caught by his wife when a struggle ensued resulting in Robert Laughlin killing his wife and 13-year-old niece and then burning his house to hide the crime. The people do not believe the story of Laughlin that masked robbers killed his wife and niece, assaulted him and fired the house. The neighbors are so indignant that a lynching is expected.

KILL ALL THE SEALS.

The Senate Foreign Committee In Favor of Such Action.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The senate committee on foreign relations has practically decided to favorably report Senator Pettigrew's amendment of the law regulating seal fisheries. The main feature of the bill is a provision permitting the president to have all the seals, male and female, on the Pribiloff islands, killed in case other governments interested will not agree to a modus vivendi for the better protection of the seals while the matter of permanent protection is under consideration by an international commission, for which the bill makes provision.

A SILVER DEADLOCK.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The personnel of the conference committee on the silver bond bill is exciting much interest, owing to the peculiar difference existing between the senate and house. The latter has passed the bond bill and refused to accept the senate silver substitute and declines to accept the bond feature.

Chairman Dingley, of the ways and means committee, said the senate would take the initiative. It was customary, he said, for each body to give a representation to each element on a measure. If this course was followed the senate would name two silver and one sound money senators as the senate conferees and the house would name two sound money and one silver man to represent it.

Mr. Dingley was asked how far it would be possible for a conference committee to frame a compromise when the measures of the two houses were antagonistic. He said a conference could not go outside the legislation of the two houses so far as to affect an entirely new measure. He expressed doubt whether so complete a difference between the houses as existed on this bill left open any middle course.

He regards the difference between the senate and house on the question of the bond bill as of such a nature that no agreement can be reached by means of conference committees. Such committees will be appointed, but it will be a mere formality.

National Chairman Mott Issues an Address to the People.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—J. J. Mott, chairman of the national silver committee, has issued an address to the people, asking them to forget party in a combined effort for the cause of silver.

He says: "Both the Democratic and Republican parties are under the blighting influence of the eastern money power. The record of every national convention of both parties for years is plain proof of the assertion. The legislation of both parties in congress is proof that it is impossible as a party question."

"Shall we longer heed the false promises of party platform declarations? Shall we longer submit to the academic discussion of what bimetalism means? Shall it be another campaign of stranding and equivocations? Or shall the issue be squarely on the free coinage of silver and gold and a president elected who represents the people on that great question?"

"The one hope of the people, I am convinced, is in the election of a president pledged, unconditionally and unreservedly, to the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold, the same as from the foundation of our government until 1873. And also unconditionally pledged in favor of a national currency, without the intervention of banks of issue and against the issuance of interest-bearing bonds in time of peace for any purpose whatever."

MAY ADJOURN BY JUNE 1.

Senators Already Talking About It—Probable Work of the Week.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The prospects are for a busy week in the senate, but outside of the fact that Senator Davis will speak on Monday in support of the Monroe doctrine and that the appropriation bills which have been reported will be taken up and probably disposed of, no definite forecast of the proceedings can be given.

The Cuban resolution has been given the place of precedence after the appropriation bill, but it is not yet certain that this subject will be taken up seriously until the senators who may wish to speak upon it shall have opportunity to prepare themselves.

There continues to be more or less discussion of a private nature among senators as to the probabilities of getting up the tariff bill in some form, but this depends almost wholly upon whether the friends of the bill can obtain assurance of success in whatever move they make.

The reports of both the majority and the minority of the committee on privileges and elections upon the Dupont case, the former favoring the seating of Mr. Dupont as senator from Delaware and the latter opposing that course will be made to the senate today.

There is beginning to be a great deal of talk in the senate of an early adjournment. If it is made evident that there will be no tariff legislation many senators think that an adjournment by June 1 will be possible.

THE WEEK IN THE HOUSE.

Cuban and Bayard Resolutions Likely to Be Reported.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Most of the time of the house this week will be taken up with the consideration of the appropriation bills.

The foreign affairs committee will call up the resolution to censure Ambassador Bayard as soon as those in charge of the appropriation bill, which have the right of way, afford an opportunity to do so.

The foreign affairs committee is also working on a Cuban resolution, and it may possibly be reported to the house this week. The trend of opinion in the committee favors a resolution expressing it as the sense of congress that a state of war exists in Cuba, and requesting the president to issue his proclamation recognizing the insurgents as belligerents.

President Agrees to Arbitrate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The president has consented to serve as arbitrator between Italy and Brazil in the settlement of certain questions that have been pending for several years, growing out of the claims for Italians for indemnity for riots in Rio during the Brazilian rebellion.

TO FIND HIS DAUGHTER

Has Been Missing for Many Years.

HAS RECEIVED A CLUE HERE.

A Resident of Virginia Searching for His Daughter, Whom He Has Not Seen for a Number of Years—Came to Town Yesterday—Secured Good News.

A man who gave his name as J. B. Nichols came to town yesterday to endeavor, if possible, to find a trace of the whereabouts of his daughter, whom he said had married a brother of a man named Fred. Heckle, living here in town. The gentleman said that his home was in the western part of the state of old Virginia, and that his daughter Minnie had left it soon after the death of her mother, which occurred a few years ago, and went to live with a step-brother, who lived in the coke regions of Pennsylvania. After living there some time, she met and fell in love with William Heckle, a brother of the person that he is seeking here. Not yet being of age, she wrote home to her father, asking if he would give his consent to a union between the two. The father answered and told her to defer marriage until he arrived. Fearing that her father would not approve of the match, she and her lover fled to Pittsburgh, procured a marriage license and were wedded. They lived there a few years and then moved to Red-bank, 65 miles above Pittsburgh. Since then Mr. Nichols has not had any trace of the whereabouts of his daughter. He heard that they had returned to Pittsburgh again, but a search at that place last week failed to give a clue. Knowing that his son-in-law had a brother living here at one time, he turned his steps to this city, hoping to learn some news. Chancing to meet a reporter of this paper, Mr. Nichols recounted the above story to him, and they both at once instituted a vigorous search for the brother of the missing son-in-law. At length success attended their efforts, and it was learned that Fred. Heckle, the man sought for, was an employe in the glassworks, and that his brother William, who formerly lived here, was now in Pittsburgh, living on Twentieth street. The father was overjoyed at the prospect of seeing his daughter so soon, and left, expressing his warmest thanks to the NEWS REVIEW for the kind assistance rendered him.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Here is Something in Which Many Residents Are Interested.

For some time past, Harry MacKenzie, in the handsome studio at the First National Bank building, has been turning out superb cabinet photos, at the wonderfully low price of $1.50 per dozen, and the number of orders received in consequence has been almost beyond belief. Harry was doing this elegant work at such low figures for the express purpose of placing his pictures before the public, in order to show the artistic photos he is turning out. Having accomplished his purpose, he had intended calling a halt on such low figures on the evening of Saturday, Feb. 15. But, in response to many calls for a continuance of the price for a short time, he has decided to continue turning out first-class cabinets until March 1, inclusive, at only $1.50 per dozen. This date will positively close the low figures indicated, and you will do well to take advantage of the golden opportunity offered. Don't weary and worry yourself. Take the elevator and step off into the studio.

A NEW VENTURE.

Cards.

Several days ago the NEWS REVIEW announced that the small boys in the city were saving the candidates cards, almost every lad between the ages of 8 and 14 having a large collection. It has been a rule with the boys to trade with each other, but not until the other day did they start to purchase cards. One boy was so fortunate as to have the card of a candidate from the north end of the county, and it being a rarity among the collectors, he immediately offered it for sale, and was paid five cents for it by another kid, who sold it for 10 cents. The dickering and bartering goes merrily on, and will no doubt continue until after the election.

THE PLAY.

Fogarty's Fortune at the Grand Saturday Night.

A fair-sized audience greeted the Webber company at the Grand Saturday night, and were well pleased with the performance. The play is a delightful comedy drama, and was acted by the company in a superb manner. The work of Harry Webber and Misses Carrie Webber and Jeannie Tarr being exceptionally clever. Tonight the company will present the famous melo-drama, "Cast Aside," the plot of which is taken from Chas. K. Harris' popular song.

UNION EX-PRISONERS OF WAR.

Local Ex-Prisoners Will Note Legislation
in Their Favor.

There are a number of old veterans in this immediate section who were so unfortunate as to be captured by the Johnnies during the late rebellion, and who suffered severely in southern prison pens, such as Andersonville, of infamous fame, Libby, Castle Thunder, Belle Island, Florence, Millen, Charleston jail and kindred places. Our local residents who were thus panned up by the fortune of war have been in communication with Vice President Charles F. Sheriff, of Pittsburgh, and the latter gentleman informs the local lads that there is a possibility that favorable legislation will be enacted at Washington City, and that some remuneration will be given to the veterans who are yet able to answer roll call on this lower earth. The house committee on invalid pensions gave the committee which waited upon them, from the ex-prisoners association, the assurance that their plea should receive favorable consideration. Congressman E. J. Hainer, of Nebraska, has a bill before Congress, which is house bill No. 306. There were at one time in rebel prisons 190,000 men. Those now living are estimated at 50,000, showing that the boys have passed away rapidly. If the bill passes, it will require one million dollars to satisfy its provisions. This bill would give each prisoner $2 per day for each day he spent in southern prisons, and increase his pension, if he has one, to $12 per month. President Sheriff, who was in Washington, says:

"The assurances we received from Mr. Pickler, of North Dakota, chairman of the committee on invalid pensions; Mr. Kirkpatrick, of Kansas, and George B. McClellan, son of the great general, who in a manner polled the committee, led us to believe the committee would make a favorable report on the bill. Senators Cameron, Quay, Cullom and others assured us that there would be no trouble about the bill passing the senate if it was recommended by the committee, and Congressman Stone, Dalzell, McMillan, of Tennessee, and General Hulick, of Ohio, as well as a number of others, spoke to us favorably of the chances of the bill in the house, provided the committee recommended it. They said they all favored such a bill rather than the private pension bills, which overflow the house."

"They asked us for certain data about ex-prisoners, which we furnished. It included facts such as General Grant's order to General Butler, who was then commissioner of exchange, forbidding him to make any exchange of prisoners until further orders from General Grant. The latter said it was better to sacrifice men than to exchange them for weak, emaciated ones, he knowing that the Confederates would put these able-bodied men in front, which would make a corps larger than any General Lee then had in his front, thus prolonging the war."

"He regretted very much the necessity of allowing men to starve and die from exposure, but in justice to the men in front, he felt it was the better plan and would readily end the war. Thus it was that men were kept prisoners by the southern army who might have been out, re-enlisted, gotten bounties, etc."

Concluding a long criticism of "Othello" on Tuesday last, the Express, Buffalo's leading and most conservative paper, says of the Hanford-Spencer-O'Brien company:

"The Hanford company at the Star did more than achieve substantial success. Their success was a brilliant one, if the word 'brilliant' may properly be used in reference to a play so grand in its passions and so sorrowful in its ending. The elements which combined to make the presentation of the play one of such rare merit were several in number. Intelligent appreciation of the text, careful study and thorough rehearsing were plainly apparent; the leading parts were almost without exception in the hands of capable actors, and there was an infinite care as to details. In fact, nothing which lay within the power of the company and stage manager to do was undone. The accessories of costumes, scenery and all the material adjuncts were all that could be desired. The chief merit of the ensemble, to borrow a musical phrase—the acting of the company as a whole—was the impression of the sustained power conveyed. Each act, each scene, each situation, was all that the actors engaged could make it."

Mrs. Emily Thorne, who resides at Toledo, Washington, says she has never been able to procure any medicine for rheumatism that relieves the pain so quickly and effectually as Chamberlain's pain balm, and that she has also used it for lame back with great success. For sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

Regrets are likely to be thick among stay aways who neglect to witness the production of "Othello."

LINCOLN ANNIVERSARY.

General Lyon Grand Army Post Discusses
the Subject.

At a regular meeting of General Lyon post, No. 44, Grand Army, Feb. 14, 1896, the routine business was attended to. After this the post took action respecting the anniversary and memory of Abraham Lincoln, our martyred president. Remarks were made by N. A. Frederick, J. A. Myers, W. H. Dawson, Alex. McGraw, F. G. Croxall, Thomas Lloyd, W. H. Suris, W. B. McCord, H. W. Abrams, Robert Hall, N. M. Simms and Andrew Reed. The remarks and eulogies were interesting indeed. Many referred to his humble birth, his limited schooling, his noble character in youth and manhood, his legal attainments, his successes, his speech, his tender heartedness, his magnanimous and forgiving disposition, his elevation to the presidency, his being chosen of God, his "Proclamation of Emancipation," his kindness and care for the comfort of the soldier, his Christian character, as seen in all his acts, both public and private; his noble example was held up for the imitation of the citizens of today. Celebrating the birth of Lincoln in our public schools was very highly commended. It was the unanimous opinion that the 12th of February should be made a legal holiday, both by our legislature and the congress of the United States, and designated as "Lincoln's Birthday." Such a treat has rarely been enjoyed by the Post. It was the unanimous feeling that "it was good to be there." All felt the force of the words so fittingly spoken, "With malice toward none, and with charity for all, with firmness in right as God gives us to see the right. Do all which achieves a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

A TOWNSMAN HONORED.

C. P. Kitchel Carries Off High Honors at

In everything that is honorable and right, the average good citizen rejoices when a resident of East Liverpool has honors conferred upon him, as it reflects honor and credit upon our citizens at large, and calls attention to the city and its industries. The NEWS REVIEW therefore rejoices with F. D. Kitchel and his family in the fact that C. P. Kitchel has won the medal essay at Yale college, the greatest literary honor conferred by that famous educational establishment.

A Des Moines woman who has been troubled with frequent colds, concluded to try an old remedy in a new way, and accordingly took a tablespoonful (four times the usual dose) of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy just before going to bed. The next morning she found that her cold had almost entirely disappeared. During the day she took a few doses of the remedy (one teaspoonful at a time) and at night again took a tablespoonful before going to bed, and on the following morning awoke free from all symptoms of the cold. Since then she has, on several occasions, used this remedy in like manner, with the same good results, and is much elated over her discovery of so quick a way of curing a cold. For sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

A DAMAGE SUIT

Was Filed This Morning by Timothy
Burns.

Special to the NEWS REVIEW.
LISBON, Feb. 17.—Timothy Burns this morning filed separate actions for damages against Officers Earl and Jennings in the sum of $500 in each case, and an effort will be made to hold Joseph G. Lee and W. N. Bailey as Earl's bondsmen, and George Kauffman and J. A. Norris as bondsmen for Jennings, responsible for the amount; that on the 19th of last May, Earl and Jennings forcibly entered his place without any cause, arrested him and kept him in jail for 17 days.

Three splendid actors—Charles B. Hanford, Elihu R. Spencer and Nora O'Brien—will appear as Othello, Iago and Desdemona respectively at the Opera House Thursday night.

O. W. G. Hardman, sheriff of Tyler county, W. Va., appreciates a good thing and does not hesitate to say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of Chamberlain's cough remedy. He says: "It gave me prompt relief. I find it to be an invaluable remedy for coughs and colds." For sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

Those who prattle about the decadence of the drama may change their minds after seeing "Othello" rendered by the Hanford-Spencer-O'Brien company Thursday night.

Notice.

The Republican County Convention will meet at the Court House, in Lisbon, on Monday, March 2, commencing at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of choosing delegates to the State convention.

W. L. SMITH, Chairman.
JAS. N. HANLEY, Sec.

Hotel Kleptomaniacs.
I was talking to a hotel clerk, and he said: "Talk about kleptomaniacs at dry goods stores, they are scarcely a circumstance to those at a first class hotel. People who cheerfully pay $5 a day for board will steal a 10 cent cake of soap and put themselves to a great deal of trouble to do it. But the principal things guests take are towels, and the collection of those articles has become a regular fad. They are taken as souvenirs of the hotel, and a lady who has traveled a great deal will have a whole trunkful with the names of the hotels on them. This is conclusive proof that they have stopped at those houses, and a person whose towels bear the marks of hotels throughout the civilized world is to be envied as possessing a most interesting collection of mementos. A few napkins are taken and occasionally spoons. Door keys and checks used to disappear in great numbers, but none of these equals towels in the eyes of collectors of hotel souvenirs."—Washington Star.

A Blighted Life.

"Farewell forever, then," cried the weeping girl. "We part, but the sorrow of this shall sear my young life for aye."

In a paroxysm of grief uncontrollable she threw herself upon the couch as the street door slammed shut, behind the haggard young man who had torn himself from her presence. Then hastily arising she brushed away the traces of tears and went down to match that lovely piece of heliotrope.—New York Herald.

Washington's Birthday Excursion.

Excursion tickets to Pittsburgh will be sold from Bellaire, Canton, New Castle, Cadiz, Dennison, Washington, Pa., Wheeling, New Cumberland and intermediate ticket stations on the Pennsylvania Lines, Saturday, February 22d, Washington's Birthday. Tickets will be good going on regular trains of February 22d and will be good returning until February 23d, inclusive. For rates and time of trains see nearest Pennsylvania Line ticket agent or call on or address Adam Hill, Ticket Agent, East Liverpool, O.

The tour of the Hanford-Spencer-O'Brien company is a continuous triumph. Cities and towns vie in honoring them. Here they will present "Othello."

Supper and Dance.

The Daughters of St. George will give a grand dance and palatable supper at Bradshaw's hall on Tuesday night, Feb. 18, in honor of their seventh anniversary. Tickets, 35 cents. Supper from 6 to 8.

If unstinted praise counts for what it should, then the performance of "Othello" by the Hanford-Spencer-O'Brien company must be unsurpassed.

Here is something in which many residents are interested.

For some time past, Harry MacKenzie, in the handsome studio at the First National Bank building, has been turning out superb cabinet photos, at the wonderfully low price of $1.50 per dozen, and the number of orders received in consequence has been almost beyond belief. Harry was doing this elegant work at such low figures for the express purpose of placing his pictures before the public, in order to show the artistic photos he is turning out. Having accomplished his purpose, he had intended calling a halt on such low figures on the evening of Saturday, Feb. 15. But, in response to many calls for a continuance of the price for a short time, he has decided to continue turning out first-class cabinets until March 1, inclusive, at only $1.50 per dozen. This date will positively close the low figures indicated, and you will do well to take advantage of the golden opportunity offered. Don't weary and worry yourself. Take the elevator and step off into the studio.

Cards.

Several days ago the NEWS REVIEW announced that the small boys in the city were saving the candidates cards, almost every lad between the ages of 8 and 14 having a large collection. It has been a rule with the boys to trade with each other, but not until the other day did they start to purchase cards. One boy was so fortunate as to have the card of a candidate from the north end of the county, and it being a rarity among the collectors, he immediately offered it for sale, and was paid five cents for it by another kid, who sold it for 10 cents. The dickering and bartering goes merrily on, and will no doubt continue until after the election.

THE PLAY.

Night.

A fair-sized audience greeted the Webber company at the Grand Saturday night, and were well pleased with the performance. The play is a delightful comedy drama, and was acted by the company in a superb manner, the work of Harry Webber and Misses Carrie Webber and Jeannie Tarr being exceptionally clever. Tonight the company will present the famous melo-drama, "Cast Aside," the plot of which is taken from Chas. K. Harris' popular song.

UNION EX-PRISONERS OF WAR.

Local Ex-Prisoners Will Note Legislation
in Their Favor.

There are a number of old veterans in this immediate section who were so unfortunate as to be captured by the Johnnies during the late rebellion, and who suffered severely in southern prison pens, such as Andersonville, of infamous fame, Libby, Castle Thunder, Belle Island, Florence, Millen, Charleston jail and kindred places. Our local residents who were thus panned up by the fortune of war have been in communication with Vice President Charles F. Sheriff, of Pittsburgh, and the latter gentleman informs the local lads that there is a possibility that favorable legislation will be enacted at Washington City, and that some remuneration will be given to the veterans who are yet able to answer roll call on this lower earth. The house committee on invalid pensions gave the committee which waited upon them, from the ex-prisoners association, the assurance that their plea should receive favorable consideration. Congressman E. J. Hainer, of Nebraska, has a bill before Congress, which is house bill No. 306. There were at one time in rebel prisons 196,000 men. Those now living are estimated at 50,000, showing that the boys have passed away rapidly. If the bill passes, it will require one million dollars to satisfy its provisions. This bill would give each prisoner $2 per day for each day he spent in southern prisons, and increase his pension, if he has one, to $12 per month. President Sheriff, who was in Washington, says:

"The assurances we received from Mr. Pickler, of North Dakota, chairman of the committee on invalid pensions; Mr. Kirkpatrick, of Kansas, and George B. McClellan, son of the great general, who in a manner polled the committee, led us to believe the committee would make a favorable report on the bill. Senators Cameron, Quay, Cullom and others assured us that there would be no trouble about the bill passing the senate if it was recommended by the committee, and Congressman Stone, Dalzell, McMillan, of Tennessee, and General Hulick, of Ohio, as well as a number of others, spoke to us favorably of the chances of the bill in the house, provided the committee recommended it. They said they all favored such a bill rather than the private pension bills, which overflow the house."

"They asked us for certain data about ex-prisoners, which we furnished. It included facts such as General Grant's order to General Butler, who was then commissioner of exchange, forbidding him to make any exchange of prisoners until further orders from General Grant. The latter said it was better to sacrifice men than in rebel prisons than to exchange sound, able-bodied men for weak, emaciated ones, he knowing that the Confederates would put these able-bodied men in front, which would make a corps larger than any General Lee then had in his front, thus prolonging the war."

"He regretted very much the necessity of allowing men to starve and die from exposure, but in justice to the men in front, he felt it was the better plan and would readily end the war. Thus it was that men were kept prisoners by the southern army who might have been out, re-enlisted, gotten bounties, etc."

Concluding a long criticism of "Othello" on Tuesday last, the Express, Buffalo's leading and most conservative paper, says of the Hanford-Spencer-O'Brien company:

"The Hanford company at the Star did more than achieve substantial success. Their success was a brilliant one, if the word 'brilliant' may properly be used in reference to a play so grand in its passions and so sorrowful in its ending. The elements which combined to make the presentation of the play one of such rare merit were several in number. Intelligent appreciation of the text, careful study and thorough rehearsing were plainly apparent; the leading parts were almost without exception in the hands of capable actors, and there was an infinite care as to details. In fact, nothing which lay within the power of the company and stage manager to do was undone. The accessories of costumes, scenery and all the material adjuncts were all that could be desired. The chief merit of the ensemble, to borrow a musical phrase—the acting of the company as a whole—was the impression of the sustained power conveyed. Each act, each scene, each situation, was all that the actors engaged could make it."

Mrs. Emily Thorne, who resides at Toledo, Washington, says she has never been able to procure any medicine for rheumatism that relieves the pain so quickly and effectually as Chamberlain's pain balm, and that she has also used it for lame back with great success. For sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

Regrets are likely to be thick among stay aways who neglect to witness the production of "Othello."

LINCOLN ANNIVERSARY.

General Lyon Grand Army Post Discusses
the Subject.

At a regular meeting of General Lyon post, No. 44, Grand Army, Feb. 14, 1896, the routine business was attended to. After this the post took action respecting the anniversary and memory of Abraham Lincoln, our martyred president. Remarks were made by N. A. Frederick, J. A. Myers, W. H. Dawson, Alex McGraw, F. G. Croxall, Thomas Lloyd, W. H. Suris, W. B. McCord, H. W. Abrams, Robert Hall, N. M. Simms and Andrew Reed. The remarks and eulogies were interesting indeed. Many referred to his humble birth, his limited schooling, his noble character in youth and manhood, his legal attainments, his successes, his speech, his tender heartedness, his magnanimous and forgiving disposition, his elevation to the presidency, his being chosen of God, his "Proclamation of Emancipation," his kindness and care for the comfort of the soldier, his Christian character, as seen in all his acts, both public and private; his noble example was held up for the imitation of the citizens of today. Celebrating the birth of Lincoln in our public schools was very highly commended. It was the unanimous opinion that the 12th of February should be made a legal holiday, both by our legislature and the congress of the United States, and designated as "Lincoln's Birthday." Such a treat has rarely been enjoyed by the Post. It was the unanimous feeling that "it was good to be there." All felt the force of the words so fittingly spoken, "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in right as God gives us to see the right. Do all which achieves a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

A TOWNSMAN HONORED.

C. P. Kitchel Carries Off High Honors at

In everything that is honorable and right, the average good citizen rejoices when a resident of East Liverpool has honors conferred upon him, as it reflects honor and credit upon our citizens at large, and calls attention to the city and its industries. The News Review therefore rejoices with F. D. Kitchel and his family in the fact that C. P. Kitchel has won the medal essay at Yale college, the greatest literary honor conferred by that famous educational establishment.

A Des Moines woman who has been troubled with frequent colds, concluded to try an old remedy in a new way, and accordingly took a tablespoonful (four times the usual dose) of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy just before going to bed. The next morning she found that her cold had almost entirely disappeared. During the day she took a few doses of the remedy (one teaspoonful at a time) and at night again took a tablespoonful before going to bed, and on the following morning awoke free from all symptoms of the cold. Since then she has, on several occasions, used this remedy in like manner, with the same good results, and is much elated over her discovery of so quick a way of curing a cold. For sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

Was Filed This Morning by Timothy
Burns.

LISBON, Feb. 17.—Timothy Burns this morning filed separate actions for damages against Officers Earl and Jennings in the sum of $500 in each case, and an effort will be made to hold Joseph G. Lee and W. N. Bailey as Earl's bondsmen, and George Kauffman and J. A. Norris as bondsmen for Jennings, responsible for the amount; that on the 19th of last May, Earl and Jennings forcibly entered his place without any cause, arrested him and kept him in jail for 17 days.

Three splendid actors—Charles B. Hanford, Elihu R. Spencer and Nora O'Brien—will appear as Othello, Iago and Desdemona respectively at the Opera House Thursday night.

O. W. G. Hardman, sheriff of Tyler county, W. Va., appreciates a good thing and does not hesitate to say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of Chamberlain's cough remedy. He says: "It gave me prompt relief. I find it to be an invaluable remedy for coughs and colds." For sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

Those who prattle about the decadence of the drama may change their minds after seeing "Othello" rendered by the Hanford-Spencer-O'Brien company Thursday night.

Notice.

The Republican County Convention will meet at the Court House, in Lisbon, on Monday, March 2, commencing at 1 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of choosing delegates to the State convention.

W. L. SMITH, Chairman.

JAS. N. HANLEY, Sec.

Hotel Kleptomaniacs.

I was talking to a hotel clerk, and he said: "Talk about kleptomaniacs at dry goods stores, they are scarcely a circumstance to those at a first class hotel. People who cheerfully pay $5 a day for board will steal a 10 cent cake of soap and put themselves to a great deal of trouble to do it. But the principal things guests take are towels, and the collection of those articles has become a regular fad. They are taken as souvenirs of the hotel, and a lady who has traveled a great deal will have a whole trunkful with the names of the hotels on them. This is conclusive proof that they have stopped at those houses, and a person whose towels bear the marks of hotels throughout the civilized world is to be envied as possessing a most interesting collection of mementos. A few napkins are taken and occasionally spoons. Door keys and checks used to disappear in great numbers, but none of these equals towels in the eyes of collectors of hotel souvenirs."—Washington Star.

A Blighted Life.

"Farewell forever, then," cried the weeping girl. "We part, but the sorrow of this shall seal my young life for aye." In a paroxysm of grief uncontrollable she threw herself upon the couch as the street door slammed shut, behind the haggard young man who had torn himself from her presence. Then hastily arising she brushed away the traces of tears and went down to match that lovely piece of heliotrope.—New York Herald.

Washington's Birthday Excursion.

Excursion tickets to Pittsburgh will be sold from Belleaire, Canton, New Castle, Cadiz, Dennison, Washington, Pa., Wheeling, New Cumberland and intermediate ticket stations on the Pennsylvania Lines, Saturday, February 22d. Washington's Birthday. Tickets will be good going on regular trains of February 22d and will be good returning until February 23d, inclusive. For rates and time of trains see nearest Pennsylvania Line ticket agent or call on or address Adam Hill, Ticket Agent, East Liverpool, O.

Supper and Dance.

The Daughters of St. George will give a grand dance and palatable supper at Bradshaw's hall on Tuesday night, Feb. 18, in honor of their seventh anniversary. Tickets, 35 cents. Supper from 6 to 8.

If unstinted praise counts for what it should, then the performance of "Othello" by the Hanford-Spencer-O'Brien company must be unsurpassed.

To Physicians in Regular Practice will be sent free by mail a sample bottle of Dr. Edson's Aseptolin, the newly discovered treatment for consumption, etc., together with Dr. Edson's paper, reprinted from the N. Y. Medical Record of Feb. 8, 1896. Those who have patients suffering from consumption are urged to test this remedy. None but physicians can use it.
